I. INTRODUCTION

The City suggests that 160 hours of attorney time, multiplied by a below-market rate, is a reasonable fees award in a complex case, involving vigorously contested issues culminating in a five-day trial. In reaching this figure, the City forwards unsupported conclusions, utilizes methods not permitted by state or federal law, and offers no evidence for its position. For example, the City:

- Takes a “chopping block” approach to AFSCME’s billing records. Rather than pointing to specific examples of inefficient or unnecessary time, the City simply proposes chopping large swathes of attorney time: 50 hours here, 65 hours there, etc.
- “Double-dips,” meaning it eliminates time from what it describes as “unsuccessful claims” and then again applies a negative multiplier to account for “unsuccessful” claims;
- Asserts AFSCME spent a large amount of time preparing “frivolous” motions in limine when, in fact, much of that time was spent successfully opposing the City’s own motions in limine;
- Fails to account for the fact that AFSCME has sought a below-market hourly rate in recognition of the considerations set forth in the Court’s October 1, 2014 Order; and
- States there is no evidence of AFSCME’s 15% reduction averred in the Paterson Declaration, essentially accusing AFSCME’s counsel of perjury.

The City makes many other errors,<sup>1</sup> but its chief error is its failure to carry its evidentiary burden. The City fails to provide evidence regarding market rates, the amount of time counsel should reasonably have spent, or to point to specific examples of inefficiency or largess. It also failed to offer a summary of its own time through a Defendant’s Proxy, a common practice in fees litigation.

After amply rewarding its own attorneys, the City now urges caution on behalf of taxpayers, a concern AFSCME recognized when it applied a below-market hourly rate as stated in its opening brief, but which the City ignored. Further, the City’s own cited authority contradicts its false alarm:

[T]he Supreme Court has urged particular caution when the fee award is against private parties rather than the government: ¶ Differing abilities to bear the cost of legal fees and differing notions of responsibility for fulfilling the goals of the Clean Air Act likely would justify exercising special care regarding the award of fees against private parties.

(Sierra Club v. E.P.A. (D.C. Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 796, 810 (emphasis added).) Indeed, “fees should be neither lower, nor calculated differently, when the losing defendant is the government.” (Copeland v. Marshall (D.C. Cir. 1980) 641 F.2d 880, 896.) Together plaintiffs seek “approximately $2 million dollars,” which is still far less than the amount the City (i.e., taxpayers) paid its attorneys to defend the claims and prosecute its case. This fact alone indicates AFSCME’s fees are reasonable.

II. ARGUMENT

The City failed to meet its burden of rebutting the reasonableness of AFSCME's attorneys' hours. "Once a documented fee claim is presented, the burden shifts to the opposing party to present specific objections to either the hours claimed or the rates charged by counsel." (Pearl, Cal. Attorney Fee Awards (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.2008) §§ 12.14A, 12.34, pp. 336-337, 368.4; Ketchum v. Moses (2001) 24 Cal.4th 1122, 1140-41 (challenging party must "provide an adequate record to assess error").) "[I]t is the burden of the challenging party to point to the specific items challenged, with a sufficient argument and citations to the evidence. General arguments that fees claimed are excessive, duplicative, or unrelated do not suffice." (Premier Med. Mngmt. Systems, Inc. v. Cal. (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 550, 564 ("Premier"); Gorman v. Tassajara Devel. Corp. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 44, 101 (Opposing party is "expected to identify the particular charges it considers objectionable").)

Courts do not apply reductions to fees on the basis of conclusory, speculative or unscientific measures. (Children's Hosp. and Medical Center v. Bonta (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 740, 783.) Rather, the City has "two options to oppose" the hours claimed: it can "attack the itemized billings with evidence that the fees claimed were not appropriate, or obtain the declaration of an attorney with expertise in the procedural and substantive law to demonstrate that the fees claimed were unreasonable." (Premier, supra, 163 Cal.App.4th at 563-64.) The City "has done neither." (Id.; Avakian v. WTC Financial Corp. (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 1108, 1119.) The City's Opposition rests solely on adjectives -- describing AFSCME's efforts as "downright absurd," "frivolous," etc. -- but not evidence and, accordingly, it has failed to carry its burden.

A. The City's Proposed Framework Is Unsound

The City suggests several improper methods to reduce AFSCME's fees. It engages in "double dipping" by asking the Court to eliminate time related to "unsuccessful" claims, and then requests an additional negative multiplier for "lack of success." It also applies a "chopping block" approach, under which it blithely and without evidence eliminates large chunks of time. Because the City lacks evidence or detail as to why such large, whole numbers should be chopped, it is improper.

1           1.     The City's 85% "Negative Multiplier"

2           The City's reduction of an already-reduced lodestar by 85% is an unsupportable overreach.
3           Lodestars should not be discounted in proportion to the number of claims on which a plaintiff
4           prevailed without considering the complexity of each claim. (RiverWatch v. San Diego Dept. of 5           Environ. Health (2009) 175 Cal.App.4th 768, 783 ("[T]heir argument fails to account for the 6           qualitative as opposed to quantitative significance of the issues...").) The RiverWatch plaintiffs
7           prevailed on three issues among sixty separate claims, and the court declined to reduce the fee award
8           to reflect a lack of success on many issues. (Id. at 773, 783.) Although not explained, the City's 9           negative multiplier appears based on the number of sections of Measure B that survived challenge.<sup>2</sup>

10          The City's approach of reducing hours for work on unsuccessful claims twice is 11          unprecedented as appellate courts reverse awards that apply multipliers based on considerations 12          already incorporated in the lodestar. (Ramos v. Countrywide Home Loans (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 615, 13          624-27 (multiplier not a proper exercise of discretion if dependent on duplicative reweighing of 14          factors).) The City seeks to reduce the lodestar where AFSCME has already voluntarily reduced it 15          by: (1) eliminating 15% of its time; (2) applying a below-market hourly rate; and (3) declining to 16          seek an upward multiplier.<sup>3</sup> The City ignores this while also removing additional time and adds a 17          duplicative 85% negative multiplier.

18          The City also overreaches by suggesting that time spent on unsuccessful claims must be 19          eliminated. Such a reduction is proper only with respect to "unrelated" claims. In Sundance v.
20          Municipal Court (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 268, 273, the Court of Appeal stated:

21               Section 1021.5 itself simply states that awards are to be made to successful parties,
22               with no mention of excluding compensation for the successful parties' unsuccessful
23               legal theories .... To reduce the ... fees of a successful party because he did not 24               prevail on all his arguments, makes it the attorney, and not the defendant, who pays 25               the cost of enforcing that public right.

26          (See also Cabrales v. Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1991) 935 F.2d 1050, 1052.) The City mis-cites its sole 27          authority on this point, Chavez v. Los Angeles (2010) 47 Cal.4th 970, which affirmed a fees reduction

28          <sup>2</sup> The City cites Schwarz v. Sec. of HHS (9th Cir. 1995) 73 F.3d 895 in support of a quantitative proportionate reduction. This approach is inapplicable in cases where a district court can identify the precise amount of fees incurred on unsuccessful and unrelated claims. (See id. at 905.) In Schwarz, the successful and unsuccessful claims related to events that occurred in two different agency locations. (Id. at 903-04.)

<sup>3</sup> The City incorrectly implies that AFSCME would not be eligible for any sort of increase based on novel issues or skill of counsel (City Opp., p. 4), an incorrect contention (Paterson Supp. Dec., ¶¶ 3-5, Exh. A.)

1 for other reasons, namely because: (1) the claim should have been a limited civil action; (2) the fees
2 were “unreasonably inflated”; and (3) the successful claim did not have “any broad public impact”
3 and was “not closely related to or factually intertwined with” the unsuccessful claims.” (Id. 726-27.)

4 The Chavez court cited to Hensley v. Eckerhart (1983) 461 U.S. 424, which rejects the City’s
5 approach. Hensley indicates that fees should not be reduced when plaintiffs achieve substantial relief
6 in suits with related claims merely because a court does not adopt each contention. (Id. at 440.)

7 2. Neither AFSCME Nor Its Members Received Financial Benefits

8 The City continues to assert that AFSCME’s financial gain in this litigation precludes a fee
9 award, and reargues Collins v. Los Angeles (2012) 205 Cal.App.4th 140, and CTA v. Cory (1984) 155
10 Cal. App. 3d 494 (“Cory”), (City Opp., pp. 2-3). The Court has rejected this contention. (Oct. 1, 11 2014 Order, pp. 6:19-21). The Collins court noted that in considering a fee award, courts should 12 consider the actual monetary recovery as well as any other direct financial benefits provided by the 13 judgment. (Id. at 158.) Here, as previously recognized, AFSCME achieved no direct or actual 14 monetary recovery for its members. The same reasoning applies as to Cory, a case in which CTA
15 sought an order directing the Legislature to deposit hundreds of millions of dollars into CalSTRS.
16 CTA was not entitled to fees because “the large sums in issue will accrue to the direct benefit of the 17 members of [CalSTRS].” (Id.) emphasis added.) Here, no “sums” will accrue to the benefit of 18 AFSCME members; rather AFSCME confirmed the status quo of its members’ right to continue to 19 earn specified pension benefits. The City engages in highly-speculative conjecture of its future 20 pension costs (City Opp., pp. 12-13), but the Court did not require the City to place such monies into 21 members’ retirement accounts, and a right to earn benefits through service is not a “financial reward.”
22 No negative multiplier predicated on a theory of financial incentive or reward is warranted.

23 3. Fees Attributable to Unsuccessful but Related Claims Are to be Awarded

24 The City argues that AFSCME’s fees should be reduced because it did not prevail on all its 25 claims. While relying on Hensley and progeny, the City fails to identify the applicable standard.
26 Again, that standard permits eliminating time for “unrelated” claims (whether successful or 27 unsuccessful), but confirms that time spent on unsuccessful “related” claims is recoverable:

28 [R]elated claims will involve a common core of facts or will be based on related legal theories. Under this analysis, an unsuccessful claim will be unrelated to a successful

1 claim when the relief sought on the unsuccessful claim is intended to remedy a course 2 of conduct entirely distinct and separate from the course of conduct that gave rise to the injury on which the relief granted is premised.

3 (Env'tl. Prot. Info. Ctr. v. Cal. Dep't of Forestry & Fire Prot., 190 Cal. App. 4th 217, 239 (cites
4 omitted) (“EPIC”).) Under this formulation, AFSCME’s various causes of action are related, and fees
5 are therefore recoverable regardless of individualized success.

6 AFSCME’s claims involved identical facts, a single course of conduct, equivalent remedies,
7 and are based on a common legal theory (i.e., impairment of vested rights). The City’s reliance on 8 EPIC is misplaced because, although the EPIC plaintiffs “did not attain some important objectives of 9 its litigation,” the court found that their unsuccessful claims were related to their successful ones. (Id.
10 at 246, 247.) AFSCME challenged a single voter referendum and, for this reason, this case also 11 differs from Sierra Club, supra, 769 F.2d at 803, where the “different policy rationales and statutory 12 provisions set forth by the [EPA] as support for its decisions on different issues ma[de] the different 13 claims legally distinct.” Courts should grant fees for related but unsuccessful claims if the time is 14 reasonably incurred. (E.g., Sokolow v. San Mateo County (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 231, 249; 15 Sundance, supra, 192 Cal.App.3d at 273-74).

16 AFSCME’s victories in this case were substantial and no additional reduction to the lodestar
17 is warranted. (RiverWatch, supra, 175 Cal.App.4th at 783.) Aside from prevailing on the ‘reservation
18 of rights’ issue, AFSCME also invalidated the portions of Measure B that most affected its members’
19 pension benefits. AFSCME also achieved success with respect to retiree health by invalidating a 20 provision that would permit the City to increase member contributions towards unfunded liabilities.<sup>4</sup>

21 4. The City Improperly Ignores AFSCME’s Voluntary Reduction in its Bills

22 As detailed in its opening papers, AFSCME reduced its state court fees by 15% and federal 23 case fees by 30%.<sup>5</sup> The Court should consider this voluntary reduction when assessing the 24 reasonableness of AFSCME’s request. As noted by the court in Sierra Club, supra, 769 F.2d at 807:

26 <sup>4</sup> That AFSCME did not prevail on challenges to disability retirement definitions and SRBR do not change this 27 outcome, as those sections were far less significant to AFSCME members. Few Federated System members retire on disability (City Exh. 5103, pp. 9-10; Trial Tr. 516:14-19), and very few SRBR distributions were ever made in the Federated System. (City Exhs. 5707-5709, 5717-5718; Trial Tr. 766:3-768:15.)

28 <sup>5</sup> The City’s says that there is no “proof” of this, but sworn testimony is evidence and proof. (See Weber v.
Langholz (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 1578, 1587.)

1 [T]he petitioners deducted some forty hours from those actually expended in the 2 exercise of billing judgment. Taking into consideration all these circumstances, we do not believe that the petitioners have been unreasonable in their calculation of hours attributed to their labors in this case.

3 5. The City Fails to Account for AFSCME's Reduced Hourly Rate

4 The City states it "accepts" AFSCME's blended rate of $275 hour (City Opp., p. 22);
5 however, it fails to address the fact that this rate is vastly below market and was offered as a
6 reduction in light of the factors indicated in the October 1, 2014 Order. In submitting its own
7 formulation of an appropriate lodestar, the City was required to apply a market rate (not the firm's 8 actual rate), but it failed to do so. (Welch v. Metro Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 2007) 480 F.3d 942, 946;
9 Syers Properties III, Inc. v. Rankin (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 691, 701.) As noted in the Bezemek, 10 Adam, Silver and Paterson declarations, a $275 hourly rate is well below market, a fact the City
11 failed to counter. The City cites a decision of the D.C. Circuit (City Opp., pp. 6, 9) where the court 12 applies its "Laffey Matrix," an annually-update attorneys' fees market-rate matrix. Having relied on 13 this precedent, the City should not object to application of the Laffey Matrix. (Paterson Suppl. Decl., 14 ¶ 6; Exh. B.)<sup>6</sup> California's courts may utilize the Laffey Matrix to determine rates, but apply a 9%- 15 10% increase to account for higher rates charged in the Bay Area.<sup>7</sup> (Syers, 226 Cal.App.4th at 696-16 97; Theme Promotions, Inc. v. News Am. Mktg. FSI, Inc (N.D. Cal. 2010) 731 F.Supp.2d 937, 950.)<sup>8</sup>

17 At the Laffey Matrix rates, Messrs. Soroushian's and Paterson's time is billed at the hourly
18 rates of $255 and $460, respectively; and clerk time at $150 per hour, which increases AFSCME's 19 Lodestar by an additional $84,350, or over 16.4%. (Paterson Suppl. Decl. ¶¶ 17-20), without 20 accounting for the 9-10% CPI increase for the SF Bay Area. If the City is unwilling to recognize the 21 discount associated with AFSCME's proposed rate, the City's own lodestar calculation must apply
22 market rates. (E.g., Donovan v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 567, 627-28 23 (applying 1.25 multiplier in light of plaintiffs' low hourly rate).)

24 B. AFSCME's Fees Request Is Reasonable and the City Fails to Rebut Specific Entries

25 The City points to the total hours worked on various tasks, but fails to identify specific time
26 unreasonably expended. The City's general "chopping block" approach does not satisfy its burden.

27 <sup>6</sup> Also available here: http://www.justice.gov/usao/dc/divisions/Laffey%20Matrix\_2014-2015.pdf

28 <sup>7</sup> The rates attested to in the Adam and Silver declarations are well within the range set by the Laffey matrix.

<sup>8</sup> Applying the matrix's 2009-2010 rates: 11-19 years = $446.90; 8-10 = 359.70; 4-7 = 294.30; 1-3 = $242.25.

1 (Premier, supra, 163 Cal.App.4th at 560 (“Since appellants submitted no evidence that the hours
2 claimed by counsel were excessive, they appear to be asking that we declare as a matter of law that
3 the hours were unreasonable...”).) It is indicative of reasonableness, and not of a conspiracy to inflate
4 bills, that Plaintiffs spent roughly similar amounts of time on the tasks itemized by the City.

5 1. AFSCME’s Fees for Work Performed on Unsuccessful Legal Theories Were Reasonable

6 Again, AFSCME can recover for its time spent on unsuccessful legal theories, including its 7 alternative legal theories. Because the City’s demurrer and motion for judgment on the pleadings 8 addressed several of these alternative theories, fees for work defending those motions is recoverable.
9 (Paterson Suppl. Decl., ¶ 21.) Because the City provided no valid justification, proof, or evidence that 10 the time spent by AFSCME’s was unreasonable, the time should be included in the lodestar.

11 2. The City Fails to Address Fees Related to Its Federal Case

12 The City fails to rebut AFSCME’s entitlement to fees for defending the federal case.
13 (Children’s Hosp. & Med. Ctr. v. Bonta (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 740.) It merely states that it 14 voluntarily withdrew its federal case<sup>9</sup> and inexplicably notes the POA did not also seek fees. Both of 15 which are irrelevant considerations.

16 3. The City Has Failed to Justify a Reduction for Purportedly Block-Billed or Vague Entries

17 The City objects to so-called block-billing and entries it labels as “vague” and makes a gross
18 mathematical error in its call for a reduction. While it asks for a 20% reduction - a random figure it 19 fails to justify - it miscalculates this sum in its own favor by 33.11 hours. (See City Opp. at 23:25-20 24:1; Soroushian Decl., ¶ 6.) Nonetheless, the City’s cry of “block billing” requires closer analysis.

21 Block-billing is not “objectionable per se” (Christian Research Institute v. Alnor (2008) 165 22 Cal.App.4th 1315, 1325), and courts do not discount block-billed time entries where “[t]he evidence 23 submitted [is] sufficient to allow the trial court to determine ... the hours [] reasonably expended.”
24 (Lunada Biomedical v. Nunez (2014) 230 Cal.App.4th 459, 486-87 (quotes omitted).) A moving party 25 can “carry its burden of establishing its entitlement to attorney fees by submitting a declaration from 26 counsel instead of billing records or invoices.” (Id. at 487-88; Weber v. Langholz (1995) 39
27 Cal.App.4th 1578, 1587 (fee award proper even in absence of submission of time records and billing

28 <sup>9</sup> The City withdrew its federal action in the face of AFSCME’s motion to dismiss and this Court’s refusal to cede jurisdiction. (Paterson Suppl. Decl., ¶¶ 15-16; Supp. RJN, Exhs. A-C.)

1 statements); In re Sutter Health Uninsured Pricing Cases (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 495, 512 (same).)
2 Importantly, B&P Code section 6148(b) sets forth the requirement for legal services bills and “does 3 not expressly require disclosing the date upon which services were rendered or that services be 4 specifically described. I.e., “block” billings where multiple tasks are billed in a single entry are 5 evidently permissible (e.g., “Research, draft motion, attend deposition, attend hearing on motion
6 ... ).” (Cal. Prac. Guide Prof. Resp. Ch. 5-H, 5:920.) Here, AFSCME’s billing entries and descriptions
7 provide ample evidence to verify the reasonableness of the hours spent. The purported block-billed
8 entries involve daily trial preparation, preparation of the opposition to the City’s MSA, or work
9 required by the pre-trial stipulation and order. (Paterson Suppl. Decl., ¶ 13; Soroushian Decl., ¶¶ 10 7(g), 7(f), 8; Suppl. RJN, Exh. D.) The entries do not lump unrelated tasks together for a daily charge, 11 and the time spent on trial preparation and the MSA opposition is very reasonable and fully 12 recoverable under this fees request. (Id.) The City does not contend that the time spent was 13 unreasonable or unrecoverable. (Jaramillo v. Orange County (2011) 200 Cal.App.4th 811, 830 (block 14 billing is not problematic where “there was no need to separate out covered from uncovered work”).)

15 As for entries labelled “vague,” no reduction is warranted because all the time related to work 16 performed on compensable tasks (i.e. preparing discovery requests and responses, opposing the 17 MSA, and preparing witnesses). “Because time records are not required under California law ... there 18 is no required level of detail that counsel must achieve.” (Syers, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at 699; 19 PLCM Group v. Drexler (2000) 22 Cal.4th 1084, 1098 (“We do not want a trial court, in setting an 20 attorney’s fee, to become enmeshed in a meticulous analysis of every detailed facet of the 21 professional representation”).) The supplemental declarations AFSCME submits with this reply
22 provide greater detail as to these entries, in the event the Court requires additional information to 23 evaluate the time spent. (Soroushian Decl., ¶ 7; Paterson Suppl. Decl., ¶¶ 12, 14.)

24 4. AFSCME Is Entitled to Work Performed Opposing the City’s Motions in Limine

25 Although AFSCME did not prevail on its motions in limine, it prevailed in defending many of 26 the City’s motions in limine. (Paterson Suppl. Decl., ¶ 8; Exhibit H to Decl. of Linda Ross, pp. 2-3.)
27 The City’s unsupported assertion that AFSCME’s work “bordered on frivolous” does not suffice to 28 carry its burden, especially because the City combines time spent both preparing and opposing

1 motions in limine in this category, further illustrating the unreliability of the City's summaries.
2 AFSCME's motions in limine themselves served a beneficial purpose, presenting issues to the trial
3 court in advance. That these motions were denied does not render them frivolous, and section 1021.5 4 is not intended to punish litigants from enjoying vigorous representation.

5       5.       AFSCME's Fees Related to the Complaint, Pre and Post-trial Briefs Are Reasonable

6       The City declares blithely that time spent drafting the complaint was excessive and should be 7 reduced by a flat 50 hours, because AFSCME could have copied the POA's complaint. The POA and 8 AFSCME are separate entities with separate interests whose members are in different systems. Each
9 system has a different history, ordinances and charter provisions. AFSCME's complaint spanned 28 10 pages of over 200 paragraphs, and required substantial factual and legal investigation.

11       Without explanation the City hacks 45 hours for pre-trial briefing, incorrectly stating it was 12 duplicative of the opposition to the MSA. The MSA presented a single issue, while the pre-trial brief 13 encompassed AFSCME's trial presentation. The standard of proof is different, as is the party bearing 14 it. AFSCME also submitted the pre-trial brief in lieu of an opening argument, an example of 15 efficiency, whereas the City prepared both a pre-trial brief and presented a lengthy opening argument
16 coupled with a multi-media power-point presentation. AFSCME's post-trial brief was also in lieu of a 17 closing statement, required the application of five days of testimony and tens of thousands of pages of 18 exhibits. The brief measured 74 pages and the City fails to specify any excessive time entries.

19       Lastly, the City contends AFSCME is entitled to no award for time defending the City's 20 demurrers and motions on the pleadings. The City offers no explanation for this position, but declares 21 carte blanche that "all the time" defending these motions "must be subtracted." Demurrers and 22 summary motions are an integral part of litigation, and the claims involved were related to successful 23 claims and are therefore compensable. (Cabrales, supra, 935 F.2d at 1053 ("plaintiff who is 24 unsuccessful at a stage of litigation that was a necessary step to her ultimate victory is entitled to 25 attorney's fees even for the unsuccessful stage").) The City failed to carry its burden of establishing 26 the time spent was unreasonable, and its chopping-block methods must be rejected. (Premier, supra, 27 163 Cal.App.4th at 563-64 (rejecting claim of excessive fees where appellee "submitted no evidence 28 to contradict the declarations and billing records submitted").)
